

Black Me

Kay Tracey (York University, Toronto).

Black you, Black me, Black we.
Black dreams and fight for true freedom.
But it seems too extreme for us to concede.
Black me wants more.
Black, we work hard.
But whyte you, are just screaming.

Black dream, but what does that mean?
I or we want, but society denies.
You or I try, but how can we survive?
My or your life matters, but how so?
It is my Black skin.
Or is it me or my Black from within?

For 450 years, we have tried to survive.
While we are treated vile.
The tolerated other
Black you, Black me, Black we.

LIAS Working Paper Series

The Leicester Institute for Advanced Studies is an interdisciplinary centre of excellence based at the University of Leicester. Dedicated to creating a collaborative and inspiring environment, it brings together researchers from across all disciplines to deliver ambitious, transformative, and impactful research.

Since 2018, the Leicester Institute for Advanced Studies has published a working paper series. The series allows our projects and partners to publish interdisciplinary research in a range of formats in order to stimulate debate about emerging research areas and complex research questions.
