Dear Ruth,

Thank you for emailing. We are happy to grant our permission to include the image that we have online of our Janet Echelman artwork, 1.8 Renwick, in your journal article.

<https://americanart.si.edu/exhibitions/wonder/online/janet-echelman>

So long as you can work from the image that we have online, we will incur no fees or require further formalities.

Our collections credit for the artwork may be listed as Smithsonian American Art Museum, Museum purchase made possible by the American Art Forum, or, for the sake of clarity, Renwick Gallery of the Smithsonian American Art Museum, Museum purchase made possible by the American Art Forum.

We request that a citation indicating copyright to the artist be included: © 2015 Janet Echelman

And, that a courtesy credit to the photographer also be included: Photo by Ron Blunt.

Sincerely,
Riche Sorensen

Subject: Permission to reproduce image from Wonder

Dear Richard Sorenson,

I am writing to request permission to reproduce an image on the Renwick Museum's website in a scholarly in Museum and Society, an open access online journal published by the University Leicester in the UK. (<https://le.ac.uk/museum-studies/about/journals/museum-society>). I believe the resolution on the web site (about 800 x 1200) will be adequate.

My article is entitled "Making Fun of the Museum: Multidisciplinarity, Holism and the 'Return of Curiosity". I do not yet know what volume and number, date of publication or number of users the publication will have. It will be published in English. As this is a scholarly publication for which I receive no compensation I would be most grateful to receive your best discounted fee.
