Dear Beth,

Thanks so much for your reply and for your approval to use the image. I've attached it here. We'll be sure to mention the Canoe Museum in the caption.

Hope you have a good weekend,
Lisa

Hi Lisa,

I'm sorry for taking so long to get back to you.

You can absolutely use the image, we just ask that if it's appropriate you mention the Canoe Museum.

Can you send me the image?

Thanks,

Beth

RE Permission to reproduce an image of a canoe

To whom this may concern,

I am writing on behalf of Dr. Ruth Phillips to reproduce an image that Dr. Phillips had taken of a canoe that is on loan at the National Gallery of Canada's Indigenous and Canadian Galleries. The image will be for a scholarly article that she is publishing in Museum and Society, published by the University Leicester.

Museum and Society is an open access online journal and I do not yet know what volume and number, date of publication or number of users the publication will have. It will be published in English. As this is a scholarly publication for which I receive no compensation I would be most grateful to receive your best discounted fee.

-----, you are requested to -----

I have an image of the object, but cannot attach it to this message.

Could you please advise whether permission is required for publishing the image? If the Canadian Canoe Museum is not the copyright holder, would you kindly provide the contact information of those responsible?

Many thanks for your time,

Lisa Truong on behalf of Dr. Ruth Phillips Carleton University
